Top Tips for Revising Film Studies

- Re-watch 3 key scenes from each film we have studied, and make notes on the cinematography, mise-en-scene, editing and sound.
- Make flash cards to revise subject -specific terminology e.g. names of camera angles, editing techniques.
- Make sure you know the name of the director, year and country of release for each film studied

How Parents can Help

- Rewatch the films studied with your children. Ask questions about the context of the film's production, and about key scenes in the film.
- Practise the flash cards on subject specific terminology with student
